In addition to the standard reports that come with QuoteWerks, the built-in visual reporting tool allows you to easily modify and even create new reports to report on just about any data you would want. You can create outstanding quote reports, forecasted sales reports, commission reports, sales closure reports and more. You can find out who your most productive sales person is, what your most profitable product is, which is your highest selling product/service, etc. Create reports based on regions or territories, etc. The flexibility of our report designer allows you to create just about any report you can imagine. You can also create product/price catalogs for your customers (which can include customer specific pricing), and detail reports on your product lines, inventory, etc. Reports and documents can even be copied and then pasted into Microsoft Word.
